Plaintiffs offer a few brief comments in support of their reply brief for a two-business-day extension.

Defendants, in their response, do not contend they will be prejudiced in some specific regard by the extension. They say only the schedule would be affected. With a very modest request and no claim of prejudice, Plaintiffs request the motion be granted. As for Plaintiffs' reasons for the request, attorneys routinely seek very short extensions because of unforeseen demands on their time and this is just such a case. Rare is it that such requests are opposed and also rare that opposing counsel demand details in filings; the representation of counsel is typically sufficient. If it is not here, Plaintiffs are happy to discuss with the Court and counsel. Finally, Plaintiffs did not mean to suggest they seek a one-way extension and, of course, do not oppose Defendants filing their brief on Monday.

As noted in the motion, Plaintiffs request, if possible, to discuss the matter with the Court should the Court have questions or concerns.

Respectfully submitted,
